

S. Kann, Sons & Co.

The Busy Corner.

Always the best of everything for the least money.

If you wish to meet a friend about noon make an appointment to meet her at the Lunch Grotto.

New Foulard Silks.

If the new season's blossoms are to be as much ahead of those of last year as the new Spring Foulards we are showing this week are brighter, daintier, handsomer, and more elaborate than last season's patterns, you'll see when they do bud out such flowers as you never saw before—just as you'll see here today such styles, qualities, color blendings as it has never been your pleasure to price, buy, make up, and wear. These newcomers are strictly high novelties and will be very much in evidence with good dressers.

The best quality printed Japs—guaranteed Lyon's dye, in such combinations as blue and white, helio and white, grey and white—brown and white, and black and white—50 or more pieces to select from—24 inches wide—guaranteed $1.50 quality.

Printed Foulards in the daintiest colorings and designs printed on an excellent quality of cloth which is guaranteed not to split. A very important point in this selection is a foulard—75 pieces to select from—24 inches wide—guaranteed $1 quality.

Printed Foulards in most every conceivable shade and design to suit the taste of all—medium and large designs—no less than 100 pieces to select from—24 inches wide—guaranteed $1.50 quality.

Printed Foulards and Satin Liberties—these designs are shown exclusively by us—we consider them incomparable, both in magnitude of design and in quality—24 inches wide—guaranteed $1.50 quality.

The Main Source of the Lining Supply.

Even merchants look upon our Lining business in the same way that shoppers do. A natural leadership we hold in the favor of trade with such firmness. In this stock you'll find things that other stores cannot show, and every fabric shown elsewhere. Prices are naturally lower here.

36-inch Mord—silk finished percale—splendid quality, fast black, and all shades—12 1/2c good 50c value, at.

32-inch genuine imported French Shantung for skirt facings. A satisfactory quality, worth 15 cents. Today, 9 1/2c.

An entire line of Shades in a fine satin finish—mercerized Italian for waist, skirts, and linings. Worth 25c a yard, at, 14c.

Any color you wish in 21-inch silk finished glass linings—the kind that sells elsewhere at 20 cents a yard. Special, 14c.

20-cent value of heavy fast black moiré finished Leather Percale—this quality is a good bargain. Special, 14c.

A 10-cent value of heavy stiff black Canvas for skirt stiffening. Grand value, at, 6 1/2c.

Our line of 50c satin serges and mercerized Moreens in blacks, and all colors—satisfactory quality and linings. Special, 44c.

25 pieces of 36-inch black Moiré embossed Silk Linings—15 cent grade. Special, 9c.

S. KANN, SONS & CO.,

8th and Market Space.

"Money In."

You'll be "money in" at COKE is the first used. Most economical—cheapest in price. Buy COKE for your cook and thereby put her in a good humor. Phone 175 for COKE—delivered.

40-BU. COKE, UNCRUSHED.....$2.90.

40-BU. COKE, CRUSHED.....$3.50.

Washington Gaslight Co.,

413 10th St. N. W.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3.50 SHOE.

My Washington Store, 1023 Pa. ave. sw.

Only $1.25 for 24 Bottles.

Young Mothers,

invalids, and convalescents,

who are frail and weak, will find a welcome friend in

"Culmbacher"

—BEER. It's rich in nourishment, wholesome, bracing, strengthening, invigorating.

—BOTTLE. 12 bottles, delivered, in uncrushed packages, only $1.25.

Write or phone.

Washington Brewery Co.,

4TH AND F STS. NE. Phone 2154.

DR. WOODWARD'S VIEWS

His Reply to the Criticism of the Washington Humane Society.

Official Report on the Anti-Vivisection Bill Still Adverse Comment—A Formal Answer Submitted to the Commissioners—The Health Officer Vigorously Defends His Position.

The District Health Officer, Dr. William C. Woodward, has submitted a reply to the criticism in the Humane Society of Washington. Dr. Woodward, it will be recalled, recently formulated a report to the District Commissioners recommending adverse action on the Anti-Vivisection bill.

For this act of official duty, and for his expression of opinion contrary to the views entertained by members of the Humane Society, he was somewhat harshly criticized by the latter. In his reply to this criticism, which is addressed to the Commissioners, Dr. Woodward says:

"The Washington Humane Society professes to find in the suggestion of the Health Officer that the authority conferred by this bill to require reports of work may be utilized so as to make experiments bear witness against themselves, an admission that wrong is being, or is likely to be, done in connection with experimentation. It hardly appears necessary to point out that the bill creates new offenses, and that it provides a penalty for inflicting cruelty upon animals, but only penalties for the performance of experiments, contrary to certain arbitrary rules, which have no basis in law or in morality or justice. The statement that no moral or statutory wrong is being done at the present time has no bearing, therefore, upon what may be done in connection with the statutory misdemeanors if this bill is enacted."

"It is remarkable, too, that the Washington Humane Society should assume that a person is a person in the case of a dog, or a cat, or a rabbit, or a guinea pig, or a mouse, or a rat, or a bird, or a fish, or a frog, or a toad, or a snake, or a lizard, or a turtle, or a tortoise, or a snail, or a slug, or a worm, or an insect, or a mollusk, or a crustacean, or a coelenterate, or a protozoan, or a bacterium, or a fungus, or a plant, or an animal, or a human being."

"The act of Congress approved January 12, 1899, prescribes the duties of the Surveyor of Washington and proceeds as follows: 'All records of the division of squares and lots heretofore made between the public and private lands of the District of Columbia, and all records of the division of the public lands of the District of Columbia, shall be kept in the office of the Surveyor of the City of Washington, and all transcripts thereof, certified by him, shall be evidence equally valid with the certified transcripts from the Keeper of the Office for Recording Deeds for the conveyance of land in the District of Columbia.'"

"The act of Congress approved May 17, 1848, in which the charter of the city was amended, provided that 'the office of the Surveyor of the City of Washington shall be the legal office of record of all the property in the city of Washington.'"

"The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: 'In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private.'"

"The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: 'In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private.'"

"The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: 'In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private.'"

"The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: 'In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private.'"

"The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: 'In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private.'"

"The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: 'In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private.'"

"The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: 'In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private.'"

"The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: 'In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private.'"

"The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: 'In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private.'"

"The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: 'In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private.'"

"The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: 'In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private.'"

"The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: 'In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private.'"

"The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: 'In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private.'"

"The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: 'In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private.'"

"The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: 'In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private.'"

"The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: 'In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private.'"

"The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: 'In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private.'"

"The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: 'In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private.'"

"The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: 'In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private.'"

"The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: 'In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private.'"

"The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: 'In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private.'"

THE DISTRICT RECORDS.

The Commissioners Answer the Enquiry of Senator McMillan.

The District Commissioners yesterday replied to the request of Senator McMillan, Chairman of the Senate Committee of the District of Columbia, relative to the papers and documents which originally formed a part of the early history of Washington under the administration of the first Commissioners. These papers, as is well known, are in the custody of the Surveyor of the District, and the motive of Senator McMillan's enquiry was not only to ascertain the number and character of the papers in question, but to learn by what authority they were in the hands of the Surveyor instead of in the archives of the War Department.

In their reply the Commissioners transmit a report from the District Assessor naming the papers and documents, as follows: "Four books, 'Records of Squares,' copies of original records, showing division and allotment between the United States Commissioners and the original proprietors; 'Twenty original sheets of 'Records of Squares,' as copied in books above referred to."

"Two sub-division books, 'NK' and 'B,' containing sub-divisions of original lots in different squares and extending over the period from 1809 to 1860."

"One book of 'Reservations,' containing divisions of the low grounds into lots and squares, A, B, C, D, and in reservations 10, 11, and 12."

"Four books of proceedings of the Commissioners of low grounds under act of Congress (Stats. at Large, Vol. 2, p. 631). 'Original deeds of lots in low grounds.' 'One book of Surveyor's returns of squares.'"

"One book of register of squares." "Four books of correspondence of the original Commissioners, being copies of the original letters made by order of the Surveyor, with reference to free inspectors."

"One book of Nicholas King's grades." "One book of Coyle's grades, being copies made from the original sheets by an employee of the Surveyor's office." "Ellicott's map of the outlines of the District of Columbia."

"Map of levels in sections, marked 'N.' King, Surveyor, 1791." With reference to the legal authority by which these books and papers are retained in the custody of the Surveyor of the District, the Commissioners refer Senator McMillan to the last annual report of the Engineer's Department, pages 140 and 142, where the law upon the subject is recorded.

It appears from the statutes there quoted that the last act relating to the matter is contained principally in two acts of Congress, one enacted in 1809 and the other in 1848, while acts of 1836 and 1895 show the legal continuity of the Surveyor of the District in office.

The act of Congress approved January 12, 1809, prescribes the duties of the Surveyor of Washington and proceeds as follows: "All records of the division of squares and lots heretofore made between the public and private lands of the District of Columbia, and all records of the division of the public lands of the District of Columbia, shall be kept in the office of the Surveyor of the City of Washington, and all transcripts thereof, certified by him, shall be evidence equally valid with the certified transcripts from the Keeper of the Office for Recording Deeds for the conveyance of land in the District of Columbia."

The act of Congress approved May 17, 1848, in which the charter of the city was amended, provided that "the office of the Surveyor of the City of Washington shall be the legal office of record of all the property in the city of Washington."

The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: "In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private."

The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: "In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private."

The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: "In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private."

The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: "In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private."

The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: "In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private."

The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: "In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private."

The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: "In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private."

The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: "In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private."

The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: "In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private."

The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: "In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private."

The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: "In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private."

The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: "In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private."

The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: "In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private."

The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: "In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private."

The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: "In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private."

The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: "In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private."

The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: "In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private."

The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: "In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private."

The Surveyor of the District in his report to the Commissioners has this to say regarding the point in question: "In view of the provisions of the acts of 1809 and of 1848 it seems very difficult to understand how the records of the office of the Surveyor of the District can be other than the proper records of all the original records affecting in any way the determination of the location and boundaries of the public lands within the city of Washington, whether public or private."

ABSOLUTE SECURITY.

Genuine Carter's Little Liver Pills.

Must Bear Signature of

See Fac-Simile Wrapper Below.

Very small and so easy to take as sugar.

FOR HEADACHE. FOR DIZZINESS. FOR BILIOUSNESS. FOR TORPID LIVER. FOR CONSTIPATION. FOR SALLOW SKIN. FOR THE COMPLEXION.

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

At Rates Within the Reach of All.

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company is now furnishing telephone service from $3 a Month Up.

It is no longer necessary for the

The Small User and the Man of Moderate Means to pay the maximum rate. Service can now be had at rates varying with the amount and class of service required.

Mileage Charges Dispensed With

excepting in a few remote sections of the city.

Schedule of Reduced Message Rates.

For measured service, with metallic circuit and long-distance equipment:

No calls. 1 No parties on line. Extra calls.

200.....$0.50 400.....$1.00 600.....$1.50 800.....$2.00 1,000.....$2.50 1,200.....$3.00 1,400.....$3.50 1,600.....$4.00 1,800.....$4.50 2,000.....$5.00

Above 1,000 calls may be contracted for in 100 lots at $5.00 per hundred. No charge for incoming calls.

For full particulars call, or address

Contract Department,

619 14th Street N. W.

Telephones, Nos. 345 & 1893

ELLA WRACKS SENTENCED.

Her Punishment to Be Seven Years in the Penitentiary.

Two colored women convicted of manslaughter in Criminal Court No. 1 last month were yesterday called before Justice Claiborne for sentence. Only one of them, Ella Wracks, who was found guilty of causing the death of Isaac Henderson, also colored, was sentenced. She was ordered to be confined in the penitentiary at Mountville, Va., for a period of seven years. In imposing sentence Justice Claiborne remarked that it was only the age of the defendant that influenced him in not fixing the penalty at the extreme limit of the law, according to which he could have imprisoned her for a term of ten years. The defendant is said to be only sixteen years old. The other prisoner called for sentence was Mollie Harris, colored, convicted of the killing of Alice Coleman, also colored.

Ella Wracks was tried for the murder of Isaac Henderson, in October last, and when called to trial entered a plea of guilty which caused the testimony to be taken. The testimony showed that the defendant and the deceased had a quarrel on the porch of the house of the former and in the struggle which ensued, Henderson was thrown over the railing to the pavement, a distance of about fifteen feet. He died in a few days from the result of his injuries.

Mollie Harris was charged with manslaughter, the killing of Alice Coleman, in a street fight, was not sentenced yesterday. Her attorneys, Turner & Mitchell, presented to the court a petition signed by the right leg of the jury who signed the verdict of guilty against the prisoner, recommending her to the mercy of the court. In addition to this it was stated that the defendant's health is delicate.

Under the circumstances, Justice Claiborne, who presided at the trial, postponed the sentencing of the woman until information could be obtained as to what accommodation can be provided for her at the Mountville penitentiary.

A Lincoln Emancipation League.

A certificate of incorporation of the Lincoln Emancipation League of the District of Columbia was placed on file yesterday in the office of the Recorder of Deeds. The object of the corporation is stated to be the securing of the property of the proclamation of President Lincoln, dated April 16, 1862, setting free all the slaves in the District of Columbia. The incorporators are James W. Poe, Joseph C. Hill, and Herbert Taylor.

A SURE CURE FOR CROUP.

Twenty-five Years' Constant Use Without a Failure.

The first indication of croup is hoarseness, and in a child subject to that disease it may be taken as a sure sign of the approach of an attack. Following this hoarseness is a peculiar rough cough. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough